

Funding -

Funding for technology can come from various sources, such as the local school government and state government, or private sources. Many teachers are also encouraged to apply for technology grants from organizations and businesses.

In my department, the business department, our technology is purchased by Vocational Career Technical Education funds. After a couple of years, I have been told, one of the three business teachers, will receive new computers. This year one teacher received a new set of IBM computers. I have been told that my classroom will be next.
