

TECHNOLOGY USERS are individuals who have specific knowledge in a particular area of study plus possess good computer software skills. These individuals use computer applications as tools in necessary to complete their jobs. Examples of technology users are accountants who use spreadsheet software to balance corporate books, legal secretaries who use word processing software to type legal briefs, and graphic designers who use photo and graphic software to create brochures, ads and web pages.